STYLE & EVERYDAY USE

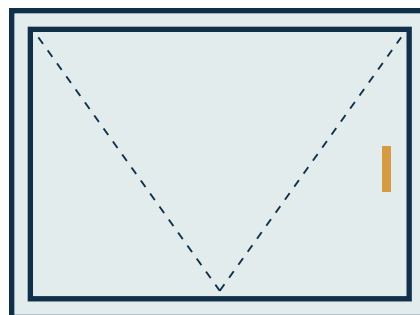

Choose how your windows work.

Balance the look of your home with access, ventilation and the way you use each room.

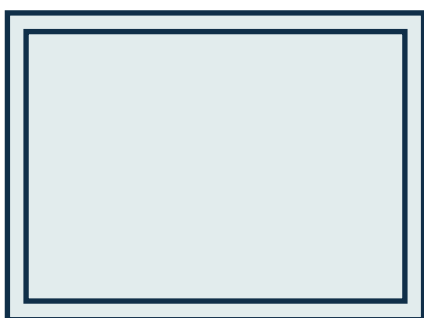

Side-hung casement

A familiar outward-opening choice. Combine opening sashes with fixed panes for a balanced elevation.

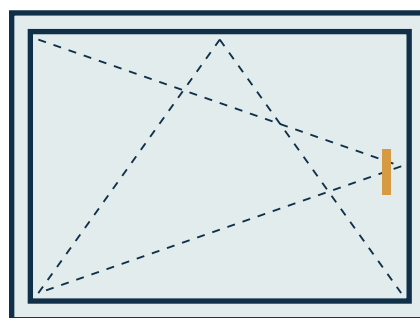

Top-hung casement

Hinged at the top and opening outwards. Useful for smaller opening lights within a larger window.

Fixed glazing

An uninterrupted view where an opening is not needed. Plan ventilation through other suitable openings.

Tilt & turn

Tilts inward for ventilation or opens inward from the side. Allow space inside for the opening sash.

Schematic elevations only. Opening sizes, safety glazing, restrictors, ventilation and any escape-window requirements are agreed at survey.

THE DETAIL THAT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Good design starts inside.

The Spectus Elite 70 system combines a multi-chambered PVCu frame with a choice of glazing and carefully specified hardware. [1]

70 mm

Frame depth

A versatile system for replacement windows and suitable new-build projects.

5

Profile chambers

Chambers help limit heat transfer; reinforcement is selected to suit the window.

A+

Energy-rating capability

Available with qualifying configurations. The rating applies to the complete window.

The whole specification matters: frame, glass, spacer bars, seals, reinforcement and fitting work together. We will confirm the configuration offered for your home.

BEVELLED OR SCULPTURED

Two profiles. One considered finish.

Choose a frame detail that complements your home, then bring the design together with matching finishing touches. [1]

Bevelled

Clean, chamfered lines for a crisp and understated appearance.

Ovolo

A softer, sculptured curve for a more traditional frame detail.

Complete the look

Discuss Georgian or astragal bars, casement horns, shaped heads and coordinated trims. These details can change the character of the finished window.

Profile images show representative configurations. Colours, glazing beads and decorative options depend on the selected system.

DOUBLE OR TRIPLE GLAZING

Comfort, pane by pane.

Choose the glazing to match your budget, room and performance priorities.

Double glazing

Two panes separated by an insulating cavity. A practical option for everyday comfort, with low-emissivity glass and warm-edge spacers available. [2]

Triple glazing

Three panes and two insulating cavities can reduce heat loss further. Compatible Elite 70 configurations let you compare both options within the same system. [1, 2]

As low as

0.8 W/m²K

Published Elite 70 whole-window U-value capability with a qualifying triple-glazed specification. Your quoted Uw depends on glass, size and configuration. [1]

Uw measures the complete window; Ug measures the glass alone. Lower U-values mean less heat transfer. Triple glazing is not automatically the best acoustic option; ask about glass designed for noise reduction.

CONFIDENCE IN THE DETAILS

Security that works quietly in the background.

Choose the complete window specification, including the locking system, glass and installation.

01 Secure locking

Specify suitable multi-point locking and correctly adjusted keeps, with handles that are easy to operate.

02 Tested configurations

PAS 24 and Secured by Design options are available on qualifying products. Ask us to confirm the exact certified specification. [1]

03 Glass to suit the location

Safety or laminated glass may be appropriate for particular positions or security priorities. We will discuss the options at survey.

04 Plan safe ventilation

Discuss restrictors and the fresh-air needs of each room. An open window or night-vent position is not equivalent to a fully locked window.

Security credentials apply to the tested product configuration, rather than every window made from the same profile. No window can guarantee prevention of a break-in.

A FINISH THAT FEELS RIGHT

Details worth choosing.

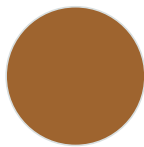

The colour you see on the outside is only part of the design. Think about the frame interior, handles and the way the window will look when open.

Five substrate colours

The substrate is the base PVCu material beneath the surface finish. Five colours feature in the collection; the available pairing depends on the profile and foil.

Make the small choices count

Choose handle finishes that work with your room. Discuss a white interior with a coloured exterior, coordinating cills and trims, and privacy glazing for bathrooms or overlooked spaces.

Easy to live with. Easy to look after.

Clean frames with a soft cloth and mild soapy water. Keep drainage openings clear, check seals and follow the hardware supplier's lubrication instructions. Avoid abrasive pads and solvent cleaners. [2]

Keep ventilation working: better insulation does not remove the need to manage moisture and fresh air.

Your home. Your next chapter.
